

Modern Slavery Statement

This statement is made on behalf of Sedgemoor Publicity Ltd in relation to Section 54 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and comprises our statement and position on slavery and human trafficking for the current financial year.

Sedgemoor Publicity as a business

Founded in 2004 in Weston-super-Mare as a supplier of promotional products across the UK. We supply items that can be branded with logos and artwork as a means to promote businesses, organisations and events. We also supply unbranded goods if required. We have access to and supply a large range of products, including clothing, drinkware, writing instruments, stationery, office products, tech accessories and bags

Policy Statement

Modern slavery is a crime that is a violation of the most basic human rights. We have a zero-tolerance approach towards modern slavery in all its forms, including compulsory labour and human trafficking. We are committed to acting ethically at every level of business and as such, we expect ethical actions from all involved throughout our supply chain.

Our Organisation Structure & Supply Chain

We do not fall into any category that could be considered as vulnerable to modern slavery in the UK, meaning that our attention in regards to slavery and human trafficking is primarily directed towards our supply chain.

All of our product branding and manufacturing is outsourced to suppliers. These are mainly based around the UK and EU, with the supplier taking care of the artwork design, print and delivery to our clients.

In turn these suppliers may source their products from manufacturers of the 'base product', who can often be based around the globe. China represents the dominant country of this level of our supply chain

Some of our products might also originate from locations such as South and East Asia, Central America and Africa.

Our supply chain also comprises an additional fourth tier (Sedgemoor Publicity is the first tier) of suppliers who provide the raw materials to the third tier.

Our Position on Slavery & Human Trafficking

Sedgemoor Publicity is committed to acting ethically in all aspects of our business, with all operations conducted with the utmost integrity and care.

Our aim is to guard those involved with our business at any level from modern slavery or human trafficking, via the communication of our expectations, the implementation of appropriate procedures and the action we take as and when necessary.

Despite our best intentions and the steps that we take, a possibility remains that without our knowledge and consent certain factors may compromise our ability to mitigate against the risk of slavery or human trafficking occurring at some level in our supply chain. As such, we will always take quick action against any such activity that we become aware of. We will always act with a view to fixing and improving the scenario, whilst ultimately being prepared to terminate the offending supply relationship if necessary.

Training On Modern Slavery & Trafficking

As much as we will take responsibility and act accordingly if we become aware of modern slavery or human trafficking at any point in our supply chain, so too will we continue to endeavour to create awareness for it among our team members.
